Subject: FW: Repeat call from person concerned about Naval shipyard sewage releases
Attachments: ertsCurrent.pdf

Hi Rob,

We've played phone tag today. I wanted to confirm with you what I heard earlier, that we can't/won't fine the Navy (or any fed), but we can/will issue orders, notice of violation, etc. What I've told reporters is that we are reviewing info submitted by the Navy and we continue working with the Navy to correct the problems. Anything else?

Hi, Suzanne. This is the party from whom I received a call at 3:17 PM, 3/8/2019, and referred to you at that time. The same party appears to have contacted EPA HQ the following day, and that message was referred to us, likely on the assumption that a sewage release would involve a state source. I'm guessing her call from Friday has already reached the right hands at your shop. Thank you! -Larry

Larry,

The complainant we spoke about the other day filed a complaint with EPA which has been directed to us. The article mentioned in response to ERTS 687641.

How should we address individuals contacting Ecology that are concerned about the sewage release from the Naval Shipyard? Is there an Ecology individual we can direct them to?
